President Roosevelt Says Much of the Men He Commanded.

PLEASED WITH TEXAS

Considered Himself a Good American
Before Entering the Lone Star
State, but Says Visit Has Made Him a Better One.

San Antonio, April 8.—Between 75,000 and 100,000 persons greeted President Roosevelt here. The people felt that they had as their guest, not only the president of the United States, but the magnetic "Teddy," toward whom the people of San Antonio feel a peculiar sense of the proprietorship on account of the fact that it was here that the regiment was organized which started him on his way to the white house.

The president was delighted with the reception accorded him. He was kept busy bowing right and left acknowledging outbursts of enthusiasm. It is seven years, approximately, since he left San Antonio with his Rough Riders. "No human being dreamed that after that I would return as president of the United States," he said in a short address at the depot.

The Alamo Plaza, within the shadow of the old Alamo, which the president, in his speech said seven years ago, filled him with a determination to do nothing to reflect on the heroes who died there, he was greeted in a manner which touched the deepest springs of his nature. His arrival was the signal for a burst of cheering which lasted until after he had taken his seat on the stand, and which was renewed when he arose to respond to the address of welcome by City Alderman Kirkpatrick. The president's speech was frequently punctuated by uproarious applause. He made a characteristic address. He was pleased that San Antonio agreed with him in his ideas on race suicide. He noted with satisfaction the attention Texans are paying to education. The law of the worthy life, the effort in a cause worth striving for was his theme. His reception throughout Texas has pleased him. "While I thought I was a good American when I came to Texas," he said, the magnetic "Teddy," toward whom the "I am going away from Texas a much better man."

In his speech the chief executive said, among other things:

"I thank you for the way in which I have been greeted to-day. You can hardly imagine how much it means to me to come back to San Antonio in this way, and to be received as you have received me. (Applause.) I know that the rest of you will not grudge my saying a special word of acknowledgment to two sets among your citizens. First, to the men of the great war, to the men who wore the blue or wore the gray in the day that tried men's souls. My fellow citizens, infinitely more important than any president, infinitely more important than any person, is what is symbolized by seeing the men who fought in the Union army and the man who fought in the Confederate army standing mingled together, fellow Americans, one in devotion and honor and loyalty to the country, shoulder to shoulder as fellow citizens of the mightiest republic upon which the sun has ever shone. Indeed, the man would have a poor heart, a poor spirit, who would not be thrilled by such a meeting as this, by such a sight as you accord me to-day, you of the gray and you of the blue, all one under the flag of this reunited country. (Applause.)"

"I suppose you must know it, but I want to tell you that it was the course the memory of the valor, the self-sacrifice, the endurance you displayed in the great war that made us of the younger generation feel that when the lesser war came we wished to emulate your course. The regiment which I had the honor to command, and which was raised and organized in this city, took part in what were only skirmishes compared with the campaigns in which you did your share, and all that we claim is that while it was not given to us to have the chance to do great deeds, yet we hope we made you feel that the old spirit was not altogether lost. This regiment served under men who had themselves fought in the Civil war, both under Grant and under Lee. The commander of the cavalry division was that great, gallant ex-Confederate soldier, Major General Joseph Wheeler; and our immediate commander, our brigade commander, was an ex-Union soldier who entered the Union army as a private, and to whom for my great good fortune, it befell me to sign the commission as lieutenant general of the army of the United States—Lieut. Gen. Young. Afterward at San Juan the cavalry served under General Sumner, from whom I took my orders. I am going to tell you just one anecdote of General Young. Before the war began I told him I was going to do my level best to get into it, and that I wanted to get a chance for some fighting. He said, 'All right, I will have a cavalry brigade, and if you come with me I will guarantee that you shall see fighting,' and he kept his word, as he always does.

"I cannot say how much it meant to me to be able to take part in raising that regiment under the shadow of the Alamo. My admiration for Texas and Texans is no new thing. Since I have been a boy and first studied the history of this country my veins have thrilled and tingled as I read of the mighty deeds of Houston, of Bowie, of Crockett, of Travis, of the men who were victorious at the fight at San Jacinto, of the even more glorious men who fell in the fight of the Alamo, of which it was said, Thermopylae had its messengers of death, but the Alamo had none."

"I remember so well seven years ago, when we were raising this regiment, riding in here one day to see the Alamo, and going away feeling that come what would, I was going to try to handle myself so that there should no disgrace come to the memory of Americans who died there."

"I wish to express my acknowledgments for the greeting which I have received here in San Antonio, and which I have received throughout the length and breadth of Texas. This is the third time I have visited this beautiful city—and it is such a beautiful city. I wonder if you yourselves, proud though you are of it, appreciate the charm it has to an outsider coming here. It is fifteen years ago that I first came here, simply passing through as a number of other travelers pass through, and saw it. Seven years ago when I came here I was strictly on business. When we go back that year from Santiago I said to the officers of the regiment: 'Now, I have got to have a reunion of the regiment in San Antonio.' All kinds of things happened in between. (Laughter.) I have led a middling busy life since, and now at last the chance has come to make good the promise, and to have those of the regiment who were able to, to come together here in the city where the regiment was raised, to greet one another."

The president said all classes of people made up the Rough Riders. Men who worked with their hands; men who worked with their heads.

Friday night the president was tendered a banquet at the Menger hotel, at which covers were laid for 162 persons. The Business Men's club presented him with a pair of solid silver spurs with gold buttons and ornaments.

At 11 o'clock his train left for Fort Worth.

WITH COMRADES.

Rough Riders and Former Colonel Spend Afternoon Together.

San Antonio, April 8.—The Rough Riders and the president had a jolly reunion. The secret service men left his side. Said one: "There is no use of our keeping guard over him; he is as safe as could possibly be." The president certainly enjoyed himself. He called his former comrades Charley, John, Jim, etc., and twitted one Rough Rider whose horse had fallen with him. The ex-soldier limped up to shake hands with the president. The "Colonel," as the Rough Riders still call him, talked with the injured Rough Rider, good-naturedly. It later developed that he was in destitute circumstances, and his comrades made up a purse for him.

A trumpeter sounded the mess call, and the president and all those present went to the mess hall, where they partook of roast beef, mashed potatoes, corn, beans, coffee, preserves and apples.

The Rough Riders adopted resolutions of thanks to San Antonio citizens and concluded thus: "In conclusion, be it resolved that we thank God that our country enjoys peace, good government, Old Glory and Colonel Theodore Roosevelt as president."

CLUB ROOM ROBBED.

Thirty-Four Hundred Dollars Stolen From a House at Houston.

Houston, April 8.—The cash roll of the Sixty-Six club room, conducted up stairs over 406 Main street by W. H. Perkins & Co., is $3,400 out of balance and the police and others are engaged in an effort to locate the "shortage," and strike a balance.

Some time between 6 and 7 o'clock the big safe, which houses the "bank roll," was "touched" for the amount above specified. Of the money that is missing $2500 is in currency and $900 in silver.

FEARED BURIAL.

Strange Predicament in Which a Negro Was Discovered.

Sherman, Tex., April 8.—A negro, about twenty years of age, and claims to live in Fannin County, was found near the Frisco Floral park in an apparently unconscious condition; in fact it was thought he was dead. He recovered, however, and made the strange statement that he could hear every word spoken near him, but was unable to see or move. He said he was afraid he would be buried alive.

SCHOOL BILL UP.

House Considers Measure and Sends it to Engrossment.

Austin, April 8.—Senate bill providing for a more efficient public school system was discussed in the house Friday and sent to engrossment. Senate worked on Kennedy tax bill and considered about half of it.

Much Money Missing.

El Paso, April 8.—Mexican Central officials announce embezzlement at four stations on that road in the last month to the extent of $25,000. The money is missing from the stations of Parral, Chihuahua, Jimenez and Santa Rosalia, the largest shortage, $12,000, being at Chihuahua.

INDEMNITY INSISTENCE.

This Desire of Japan Believed to Have Stopped Peace Negotiations.

St. Petersburg, April 8.—The Japanese insistence upon an indemnity rather than indisposition to conclude peace at this time, later information indicates, wrecked the recent attempt to bring the warring powers into negotiations. Another effort in different lines to bring Russia and Japan together is believed to be under way, the movers now being French and English financial in-

TWICE MARRIED.

Second Ceremony Performed in Order to Be on Safe Side.

Augusta, Ga., April 8.—Woodbury Kane and Sallie N. Elliot of Newport, R. I., came to Augusta from Aiken, S. C., and were married by a justice of the peace. The second marriage of the couple was performed under a license issued in Richmond county, Georgia, and was deemed necessary because divorcees are recognized in Georgia, while in South Carolina they are not. No explanation was offered by Mr. Kane, but there appears to be general satisfaction that the law has been complied with by having the marriage legalized in another state.

AN OIL MILL A NECESSITY.

The time has arrived to plant another cotton crop and Bryan is without an oil mill. That this condition is a serious menace to the interests of the town and county is sufficiently well known to all thoughtful persons to need no lengthy argument to prove that something should be done and done speedily to relieve an unfortunate situation that is not only serious, but vital. There is no time to be lost, if, indeed, there is time now to get a mill in operation for the work of the coming season. Without a mill we cannot hope to maintain a cotton seed market either in Bryan or at any tributary point where seed has heretofore been bought for the Bryan mill; and as seed go down the price of hulls and other products manufactured elsewhere will go up. It is conservatively estimated that the oil mill was worth two dollars more on the price of every ton of cotton seed sold by the farmers in Bryan, and that it saved $1.30 on every ton of seed bought here. In other words, at a low estimate, the mill was worth $25,000 a year to Brazos county aside from the money spent for labor, wood, etc. These facts are indisputable and will become painfully apparent to everybody before another year rolls around unless another mill is built.

The Eagle learns that the directors of the Bryan Cotton Oil Company will hold a meeting at an early date to determine whether or not the company will rebuild the mill. The Eagle sincerely hopes they will reach an affirmative conclusion and proceed with the work as soon as possible. If, for any reason, the present company decides not to build, then it will be up to the people of Bryan to take the matter in hand and solve the problem. It will require capital and enterprise to do it, but capital and enterprise will suffer along with the public in general if it is not done. Bryan is too big a town to be without an oil mill; and her reputation as a cotton market as well as a seed market will be bound to suffer from this loss.

The easiest way to secure another mill would be to utilize the engines, boilers and buildings of the big ginners for the plant, which would afford ample capacity for an 80 ton mill. By installing oil mill machinery and building a seed house, for which the foundation of the old seed house is available, a mill could be put in running order in incredibly short time. The outcome of the next meeting of the directors is anxiously awaited by all who realize the gravity of the situation.

A. & M. College Correspondent Writes of the Need of the Bryan-College Electric Railway.

College Station, Tex., April 7.—Much interest is being taken here in the announcement that the Bryan-College Electric Railway Right of Way Company has been granted a charter under the laws of Texas. The incorporators are Profs. N. H. Brown and F. S. Johnston of the Agricultural and Mechanical College and Messrs. A. W. Wilkerson, W. P. Connelly and J. W. Batts of Bryan. The object of the incorporation, it is reported, is not to construct the road, but to secure the right of way and the terminals and then attempt to interest Northern or Eastern capital to take hold of the proposition and put it through. As yet there is nothing certain about it. Much depends on the liberality and public spirit of the citizens of Bryan and along the route of the proposed road. If the right of way and the terminals can be secured it is believed that capitalists can be persuaded that there is something in the proposition and the road will be built.

It is certain that the construction of a line connecting the college with Bryan would be an event of far-reaching importance in the future growth and development of this college. The lack of such a road is probably the greatest barrier now in the way of this institution. It is a safe prediction that next year 200 young men anxious for industrial training will be turned away from this institution for lack of dormitory and mess hall facilities. All of these students and as many more can be accommodated in Bryan if the road can be built and put in shape for traffic by the beginning of the next scholastic year.—College Correspondent Galveston News.

By way of comment on the foregoing, The Eagle is authorized to say that the statement of the purpose of the right of way company is substantially correct, but is erroneous in one point. The company hope in a few days to have a definite proposition to submit to the people interested, and not an indefinite promise to "try to interest capital." Thus it will be seen that with a definite proposition all ready to close promptly and begin the work of construction at once, it is reasonable to hope that the road may be in operation by the beginning of the fall term of school.

With two hundred students boarding in Bryan, and travel and traffic between town and College opened up in a lively manner in September, the old town would be so radically revolutionized that it would be like "being born again."

SOCIAL

and Club Matters

With the Mutual Improvement Club, Wednesday April 5th, marked the last meeting of the club year of 1904-1905.

Deft hands had added such touches as to transform the club room into a most invitingly cheerful. Beautiful cut flowers were the keynote of decoration, and the breath of roses so appropriately wafted their fragrance, as if in remembrance of their symmetry in the club's crest. The following officers were elected for the year 1905-6: Mrs. M. W. Sims, president; Mrs. T. R. Batte, vice-president; Mrs. C. A. Adams, recording secretary; Mrs. W. S. Howell, corresponding secretary; Mrs. W. D. Lawrence, treasurer; Mrs. A. M. Waldrop, parliamentarian; Mrs. L. L. McInnis, critic; Mrs. G. M. Brandon, reporter.

Mrs. Waldrop's address was apt and appropriately put—gracefully touching upon the co-operation of fellow officers and club members, in helping to make the year enjoyable and profitable; placing credit where it was due for definite work accomplished.

Mrs. W. W. Sims, whose name stands for success in any enterprise, who has been honored and distinguished by the State Federation of clubs, and to whom we proudly claim first right as a home product, were delighted upon this occasion to do her honor (who has been so much to this organization), by paying the club's highest tribute in extending her the presidency for the ensuing year, which will mark its tenth anniversary.

Following the close of programme a quotation contest was given from the comedy, "As You Like It." Mrs. R. T. Boyle was the successful contestant. Then followed a social hour, when refreshing punch was served, and, as from a "loving cup," each member unitedly joined in appreciation of the past history of the club, and in hopeful anticipation of its future. REPORTER.

Miss Irene Keeling entertained the Bachelor Girls Club and the Embroidery Club very pleasantly Wednesday afternoon at the hospitable home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Boyle. Six tables were employed in the game of forty-two. At 3:30 o'clock all had assembled and the pleasure began, nor did the interest and excitement wane in the least from the first to the last of the contests. The score cards were pen drawn little Quaker girls with sun bonnets on—the hostess' artistic handiwork. Seven games were played and when the final one was ended the score cards gave the Bachelor Club honors to Miss Elma Harbers, who had won the highest number—prize, a sun bonnet. Mrs. D. M. Dancy received the visitor's prize, a book. The Embroidery Club prize, another pretty bonnet, went to Mrs. G. W. Emory, who in turn presented it to Miss Calhoun. The score cards had pencils attached and each guest kept her own score, and as each couple progressed it counted five for each one, this number being added to the other figures. This was quite a novel and interesting way to record the games. Orange ice and angel food was dispensed and proved most refreshing. The hostess was assisted in entertaining the guests by her mother, Mrs. Boyle, Mrs. E. J. Fountain, and Mrs. J. R. Carleton.

On April 7th L. S. Ross chapter held the fourth regular meeting for this year at the hospitable home of Mrs. F. I. Garth at 3:45 p. m. Attendance good. The chapter as usual opened with prayer. Minutes of last meeting read and approved. The corresponding secretary made report of four letters she had received one asking aid of our chapter to build a home for a widow of the Confederate General Patton Anderson. She also reported having written letters to absent members for dues, and having sent, as instructed, to Mrs. Reagan a copy of the papers containing resolutions adopted by the chapter on Judge Reagan's death. The treasurer reported she had $2.10 collected toward paying State dues. The home for the wives and widows of Confederate veterans was discussed. One of the members gave the information that some gentleman of the town had been urged by other chapters to help but preferred to do so through our chapter, the president thereby appointed a committee to collect for this purpose. Business being dispatched, the remainder of the time was devoted to war reminiscences and music followed by delicious refreshments. The next meeting will be with Mrs. J. F. Parks, the first Friday in May, 1905.

At the elegant home of Mr. and Mrs. L. L. McInnis, their daughter, Miss Lilla Graham McInnis, extended a beautiful courtesy to Miss Norma Calhoun of Houston on Tuesday evening at 8:30 o'clock. This always handsome home was refreshed with the offerings of spring—a profusion of roses, violets and ferns. Dainty maidenhair ferns, adorned the mantels and tables, while tall palms furnished a handsome background. The method of entertaining took the form of the ever popular forty-two with a progressive tendency, which lent additional interest to the game. The score cards were beautifully hand painted and the games were scored with little gold stars. A two course luncheon was served, consisting of chicken salad, olives, salted almonds and sandwiches, together with orange ice and cake.

Miss Jennie Howell entertained very informally Monday evening at the home of her parents in honor of her charming cousin, Miss Norma Calhoun of Houston. Invitations are never refused to the Howell home, for a good time is always in store for those fortunate enough to be invited. The young people enjoyed several delightful and interesting games of forty-two, after which a refreshing ice with strawberries and cake was served. Present were Misses Calhoun, Howell, Keeling, Smith, Hettie Smith, Gattie Mrs. Webb Howell, Capt. Street, Messrs. Woodall, Burton, George Smith, Saunders, Chatham and Adams.

With no lessons to worry about balmy breezes, bright sunshine and birds singing in every tree, the Bachorettes Club met with Miss Gussie Buchanan yesterday afternoon at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Buchanan, and spent several delightful hours playing forty-two. The score cards were dainty white fans tied with bows of red and white ribbon, and score was kept with little red hearts placed upon the fans. Bonbons were passed during the games and strawberry ice cream and nut cake served afterwards. The club meets next with Miss Hattie Ray Harbers.

Master Edgewood Webb celebrated his ninth birthday Friday afternoon from 4 to 6 at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robt. S. Webb, in the southern part of town. Master Edgewood was host to about twenty-five bright and happy boys and girls who played games on the lawn and made the air musical with their shouts and laughter. A handsome little gentleman of perfect manners, he did the honors gracefully, and everybody had a good time. When tired of play, refreshing and delicious ice cream, sherbet and cake were served.

On Saturday afternoon of last week, at 1:30 o'clock, Mrs. David F. Houston of College gave a lovely luncheon in honor of Miss Sophie Hutson. Covers were laid for eight and the table was exquisite with bridal wreath and white flowers. Present were Misses Sophie and Mary Hutson, Misses Sargent, Harbers, Calhoun, Howell, May Howard Watkins, Mrs. Houston.

Delightful church teas were enjoyed during the week—on Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. R. M. Wilson for the Christian church; on Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. M. Parker for St. Andrews Episcopal church, and on Friday afternoon with Mrs. H. O. Boatwright for the Baptist church.

The following invitation has been issued: Mrs. Howard Meng Lanham, At Home, Wednesday, April the Twelfth, From Four to Five O'Clock, To Meet Miss Holloway Smith, College Station.

The Bachelor girls will meet with Mrs. W. C. Davis on Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The Embroidery Club meets Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock with Mrs. H. G. Rhodes.

LIGHT REFLECTION.

The Reason Why Foam Always Appears White in Color.

When water is violently agitated small bubbles of air are mixed up with it, and thus foam is formed, and its whiteness is due to the fact that when light passes from one medium to another of a different refractive index it is always reflected, and this reflection may be so often repeated as to render the mixture impervious to light.

It is, then, this frequency of the reflections of the limiting surfaces of air and water that renders foam opaque, and, as each particle reflects light in all directions, so much light is reflected that the mixture appears white.

To a similar cause is due the whiteness of transparent bodies when crushed to powder. The separate particles transmit light freely, but the reflections at their surfaces are so numerous that the resulting effect is white. Thus glass when crushed is a white powder and is opaque, but when it is put under water it once more becomes transparent, because the water fills up the interstices between the particles, and the reflections are destroyed. Salt and snow are also common examples of this condition.

GLACIER MOTION.

The Movement is Like That of Pitch Upon a Plane.

The motion of glaciers has been scientifically defined as that of a viscous mass, partly sliding upon its bed, partly sheering upon itself under the influence of gravity. In other words, the motion resembles that of pitch poured upon a table, which spreads, not by the expansion of the bottom of the mass, but by the edges rolling over above the lower stratum, which is dragged by the table surface. It was argued against this that ice was a brittle substance, but Principal Forbes was able to show that glacier ice differs from others in possessing a distinct granular structure and that the grains, by imparting a certain amount of motion to each other, as in water, gave the whole plasticity.

The rate of motion varies with local conditions, but is sometimes extremely slow. Thus the Theodolite glacier, ejected, in 1885, from its end two skeletons, with fragments of clothing, and two medals, dated 1882.

Other high authorities attribute their motion to other natural forces, such as alternate expansion and contraction. Disgraceful. Mrs. Tittle—Wasn't it disgraceful the way these women talked during the play last night? Mrs. Tattle-Well, I should say so. Sarah Snodkins was trying to tell me the fuss in the Brindles family, and those two women made such a clatter I couldn't hear more than half she said.—Boston Transcript.

A TRUE APPETIZER AND TONIC.

Mi-o-na Will Make You Feel Hungry and Hearty, and Give Strength and Vitality.

Ask any friend who looks thin, pale, and out of health how many meals he or she eats a day, and the chances are that the answer will be "Not over two, and I don't feel hungry then." The plump, rosy, and robust eat three square meals daily, and their perfect health is due to a strong stomach and digestive system, as such a system takes out of the food all those elements that make pure blood, and give nourishment and vitality to the body.

The one appetizer and tonic that should be taken is Mi-o-na, the only agent known that will strengthen the stomach and digestive system, and put them in such perfect working order that they will digest easily and naturally all the food that is eaten, and send you to the table positively hungry for the next meal. Without a strong stomach digestion will be poor, the blood impure, and serious liver and kidney troubles result, causing headaches, spots before the eyes, dizziness, sleeplessness, nervousness, irritability, a furrowed tongue and bad breath, all of which can be readily overcome by the use of Mi-o-na, (costing but 50c a box), as it goes right to the foundation of perfect health, the stomach.

Scores of leading people in this state, including editors, ministers, bankers, and their families, gladly testify to the tonic, strengthening and health giving effects of Mi-o-na. Furthermore, E. J. Jenkins, one of the most reliable druggists in this section, sells Mi-o-na under a guarantee to refund the money if it does not produce satisfactory results.

RESOLUTIONS BY CAMP J. B. ROBERTSON.

Whereas, Camp J. B. Robertson at its last meeting appointed a committee to draft resolutions on the death of Hon. John H. Reagan, who died at his home near Palestine, Texas, March 17th, 1905; therefore be it Resolved, First—That Camp J. B. Robertson, in common with all the veterans in the great State of Texas and the whole South have sustained a great loss in the death of the Hon. John H. Reagan, the pure patriot, whose sturdy virtues were proof alike against the fierce fires of war and the trying ordeals of public life.

Second—That we review with profound admiration the spotless record of his long and useful life. Duty was his inspiring motive and honesty his guiding star during the fifty-seven years of his public life. His history as a farmer and lawyer, or as a soldier and statesman, hands down to posterity a record of true nobility without a spot or blemish to mar its purity.

Third—That we extend our sympathy to his bereaved family, and assure them that their sorrow at the loss of such a husband and father deeply touches our hearts because of the loss of such a patriot and such a public benefactor.

Fourth—That the city papers be requested to publish these resolutions and that a copy be sent to the family of our deceased friend and brother veteran at Palestine, Texas. H. B. Stoddard, A. C. Brietz, J. D. West, Committee.

The Bryan Light Guards made a splendid showing at Austin. Out of fourteen militia companies including the Houston Light Guard, it was generally conceded to be the best, and was called upon to furnish the Adjutant and the Sergeant Major for the provisional battalion, also for guard duty during the parade, occupying the position immediately in front of the president's carriage. The company was cheered at every appearance and freely complimented on all sides. The boys were well cared for and had the time of their lives.

FORT WORTH VISITED

President Given a Rousing Reception Saturday.

CITY WAS THROGGED.

People From Several Counties Were Present In Goodly Numbers and Chief Executive Recipient of Much Attention.

Fort Worth, April 8.—Saturday was the day President Roosevelt promised to visit this city and his promise was duly kept. The streets were thronged at an early hour and incoming trains, both regular and special, brought in thousands of persons to welcome the chief executive of the nation. The city was profusely decorated with bunting and the national colors, the courthouse being bedecked with red, white and blue. Captain J. T. Lytle, secretary of the Cattle Raisers Association of Texas, did himself proud in the way of decorations. Over the street opposite the local office of the association there was stretched a rope, from which a large motto, designed by the captain himself, was suspended. This motto reads: "The Cattle Raisers' Association of Texas Extends a Hearty Welcome to the President, the Cowman's Friend." Beside the motto there was a picture of President Roosevelt, draped on one side with an American flag and on the other with a Texas flag. The whole design was suspended in mid air far above even the trolley wires.

Every window of the Fair building contained two flags, while the Hoxie building and decorated from top to bottom.

The presidential train arrived at 9:45 o'clock. The night run from San Antonio was uneventful. When the train entered the Texas and Pacific railroad station an enormous crowd was on hand and gave him a hearty welcome. A committee representing the city council and Board of Trade entered the president's car and formally welcomed him to Fort Worth. After chatting a few minutes with his visitors President Roosevelt entered his carriage and took part in the large parade. The line of march was headed by mounted police and a company of the Texas National Guards. Then came the president and his party in carriages, followed by organizations of Spanish War Veterans, United Confederate Veterans Grand Army of the Republic, state militia and civic associations. The line of march was up Main street to the courthouse, and down Houston street to the large square facing the Texas and Pacific railroad station. The president was everywhere received with enthusiasm. Dense crowds of people packed the streets along the line of march and the president smiled and bowed his acknowledgements. When the square was reached the president ascended the stand, covered with flags and flowers, and delivered a brief address.

From the square the president proceeded directly to his train, which left shortly before noon for Vernon. When the train left the station the president stood upon the rear platform and waved his hand repeatedly to the people, who continued to cheer him until he was lost to sight.

With the departure of President Roosevelt from Fort Worth the public part of his trip may be said to have ended. From Frederick, Okla., on the St. Louis and San Francisco railroad, he goes on a several days' hunting excursion. The telegraph office at Frederick has been enlarged so as to keep the chief executive in touch with Washington and other points.

One prominent feature of the parade was a carriage containing several Harvard college graduates, from which institution President Roosevelt was graduated in 1882.

WENT IT ALONE.

Senate Worked on Kennedy Measure, but no Quorum in House.

Austin, April 8.—Consideration of the Kennedy tax bill was resumed in the senate Saturday. An effort was made by Senator Terrell to place a tax of 50 per cent on the gross receipts of cotton exchanges, but this was voted down by a vote of 20 to 6. An amendment was then adopted placing cotton exchanges and bucket shops in the bill and imposing a tax of 2½ per cent on their gross receipts. The amendment to tax breweries was finally voted down by a vote of 14 to 11.

The house was to have met, but it was impossible to secure a quorum and adjournment was taken to Monday morning.

TEXAS BEEKEEPERS.

Decide Three-Banded Italian Honey Maker Best For North Texas.

Paris, Tex., April 8.—The North Texas Beekeepers' association, in session at Blossom, elected following officers: President, J. M. Hagood, Enloe; vice president, R. C. Abernathy, Ladonia; secretary, W. H. White, Blossom.

The various topics discussed developed that the three-banded yellow Italian bee is the best for this section, and the members were about equally divided on cotton and alfalfa as the best plants for bees. Most of the apiarists favored section combs in preference to bulk.

Suicides at Humble.

Humble, Tex., April 8.—Chris Morton, who formerly resided at Sabine Pass, where he has a wife and two children, was found lying on a bed in a rooming house with his clothes on and a bullet wound in his head. Near his right hand was a thirty-eight caliber pistol.

Steve Owen, proprietor of Tennessee club house at Brownwood, Tex., was convicted of violating local option law and fined $25 and twenty days in jail.

INTEREST REVIVED.

Prospects of Battle Between Squadrons Causes Sudden Shifting.

London, April 8.—The sudden shifting of interest in the war from land to sea and apparently imminent prospects of a fateful battle between the Russian and Japanese squadrons in the China sea have revived all the interest shown here in the earlier development of the struggle in the far east. It is atken for granted that Admiral Togo's ships, reported to be in the neighborhood of Singapore in the middle of March, are still in that vicinity, and the report from Penang, on the west coast of the Malay peninsula, that twelve Japanese ships were seen steaming ahead of Russian warships, is interpreted to mean that the former are scouts sent out by Togo to get in touch with the Russians, and when their object is accomplished to retire on the main body of the Japanese squadron.

Reports about the numbers of Russian ships vary, but at any rate there are over thirty-five battleships, cruisers, colliers and torpedo boats that have passed the port of Singapore. Underwriters here presume from the north-easterly course they are steering that after passing Singapore Russian ships are attempting to reach the French port of Saigon, Cochinchina. However, it is pointed out that a Japanese squadron of twenty-two ships was still off Korstburg light, where it was reported March 14. Naval forces were Saturday afternoon to be only about thirty miles apart.

CHURCH TYRANNY.

Revolt Against It Is Attracting Great Deal of Attention.

St. Petersburg, April 8.—The revolt against the tyranny of the church administration is attracting immense attention. The clergy are now speaking their sentiments quite as openly on religion as the liberals in the political fields. The intimate connection between movements for regeneration of church and re-organization of state is set forth in a strong letter printed Saturday morning and ascribed to a "high ecclesiastic," in which the writer says: "The church as a living idea is inextricably bound up with the Russian's life, and when the Russian public realized they could no longer, without breaking the shackles of the bureaucracy of the church, awake from 200 years' lethargy, and its first murmur was the universal right of every thinking Russian to do his task with freedom."

FOUGHT TWELVE HOURS.

Japanese Are Reported as Having Sustained Considerable Losses.

St. Petersburg, April 8.—A dispatch from General Linvitch to the emperor, under Saturday's date, says: "The battle at Tsinsatan April 7 lasted twelve hours. The enemy's losses were heavy from our artillery and rifle fire. Our casualties were in killed Captain Massalaky and four Cossacks; wounded, two officers and thirty-four Cossacks. On April 5 our outposts after a fusillade pushed back the Japanese outposts to Talpintin."

HAD GREAT FRIGHT.

People of Reval, European Russia, Remained in Houses All Day.

Reval, April 8.—Citizens had a great fright. Stories are industriously circulated that revolutionists had planned an armed attack on the military for Friday and the inhabitants were warned that if they did not show sympathy with revolutionists by hanging out red flags when the fighting began the would share the fate of the troops. Consequently people remained in doors in a state of terror all day long, but nothing happened. In hundreds of houses, however, red flags were ready to be flung to the breeze.

Found New Way.

St. Petersburg, April 8.—Polish workmen and revolutionists have found a new way of trying to embarrass the government by organizing boycott of vodka and tobacco for the purpose of saving money for the poor and reducing the revenue of the state.

MUNICIPAL OWNERSHIP.

Mayor-Elect Dunne of Chicago Tells How He Expects to Proceed.

New York, April 8.—Fresh from his triumph in the recent municipal election, Mayor-Elect Edward F. Dunne of Chicago addressed a large meeting in Cooper Union under the auspices of the Ownership League of this city. He told how he expected to carry out his pledges made in his recent campaign in Chicago to attain municipal ownership of the benefits as he conceived them. Of this city's control of public utilities Judge Dunne said his administration proposed to raise all the money necessary to purchase an up-to-date street-car system upon certificates which are special or limited promises to pay out of the income collected from the system. Said he: "Private companies in the past have been able to sell stocks and bonds aggregating in value $117,000,000. If they could raise four times the value of the tangible property upon an expiring franchise, can any sensible man for a moment hesitate as to what amount of money the city of Chicago can raise upon the security mentioned?"

Sad Fate of a Careful Man.

I had a friend who did his duty to himself and others with such zeal that he never went to bed without taking his temperature or got up without drinking a scientific devotion the name and composition of which I have forgotten. The flavor, however, was such as rendered the duty performed particularly meritorious. His dietary was based on the most scientific principles. He weighed himself before and after each meal. He had his appendix removed, so as to avoid all risk of appendicitis, and, in short, he so fully realized the duty of being healthy and long lived that he never had time to do anything else or talk about anything else. Unfortunately he never took that little jade "Fortune" into his calculations, and after only a year of striving most manfully to fulfill the duty of being long lived he slipped on a piece of orange peel and fractured the base of his skull.—Pall Mall Gazette.

Cigar Boxes of Spanish Cedar.

"The best cigar box is made of Spanish cedar," said a tobaccoist. "All our imported cigars come in Spanish cedar boxes. Look here."

He opened a box of beautiful, costly cigars, and the odor diffused through the shop was indescribably pleasant, an odor half of tobacco, half, as it seemed, of spices.

"That spicy smell—do you notice it?" said the dealer. "Well, that is the smell of the Spanish cedar. It communicates itself to the cigars, and so delicate and subtle is it that it actually improves their flavor."

"If we put up our goods in chestnut or walnut or pine boxes the flavor of the wood, impregnating the tobacco, would ruin the cigars entirely; hence moderately good cigars are put in a box that is quite odorless, and the best cigars are put up in this aromatic and costly box."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

Mexican Etiquette.

Mexican etiquette puts on the newcomer the responsibility of making all the social advances. Visitors to any principal Mexican city, whatever their rank, foreign ministers not excepted, must in solemn print give notice to every family of any consideration resident in the municipality that they have arrived and put themselves and their homes at the disposition of the residents. Otherwise they will receive no social attention whatever. Intending visitors to that country need to be equipped with this knowledge of the customs prevailing there. The point of etiquette involved is peculiar to that country, having no known existence elsewhere. The people are very kind and hospitable when approached in their own way, and none other is understood or taken any notice of by them.

How to Feed Dogs.

In an article in the Animals' Friend C. Leighton discusses the home treatment of dogs, the various forms of distemper and their special treatment. To improper food as well as excess in eating he attributes the chief cause of this malady. "A little bread and milk or a plain biscuit should alone constitute his diet, and no alarm need be felt if the dog refuses to eat. His appetite will return with his health." He adds that bones are distinctly "harmful and frequently fatal, since they loosen the teeth, give them a taste for meat, and if a splinter is swallowed it frequently becomes impaled in the lungs or intestines or causes stoppage, when their doom is sealed and the poor brutes die."

Hard Constitutions.

"Poor old Richley!" said Brown. "He's a very sick man."

"Yes," replied Dr. Bolus, "but I have his case in hand now, and there is hope."

"Oh, I don't know!" replied the other absentmindedly. "Some of your patients have been known to get well in spite of you."

His Grief.

"John," said Mrs. Twicewood, "you are a brute! You don't express any sorrow that my mother is dying. I don't believe you'd care if all my relatives died!"

"Yes, I would, Maria," answered the brute cheerfully. "I often find myself grieving over the death of your first husband."

A Deduction.

Bugby—Who was that lady who sat beside you at the theater the other evening? Smith—Why, that was my wife. Bugby—Oh, I don't mean the one who sat on your right. I mean the one you talked with.

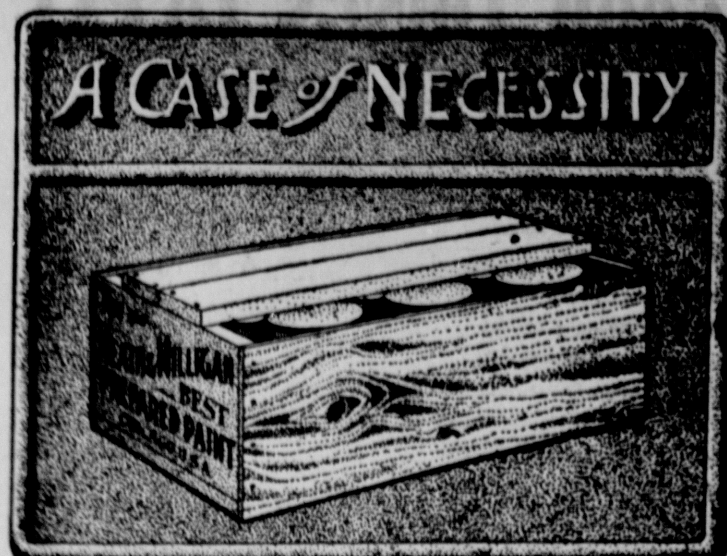

Naturally.

His Wife—I wish I had lots of money. He—If one could get what he wished for I think I should wish for common sense, not for money. His Wife—Naturally everybody wishes for what they haven't got.

They Generally Are.

"I ate a Welsh rabbit last night." "How was it?" "It was a dream."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.
